Informative Graphics Corporation (IGC)

The eDiscovery Platform integrates a subset of IGC (Informative Graphics Corporation) products for viewing image and text content. The integrated IGC capabilities are mainly used for the workflows in review, export and production.

- "IGC Components" in the next section
- "Considerations" on page 7
- "Changing the IGC Service Account" on page 8
- "Uninstalling and Re-Installing IGC" on page 9

IGC Components

IGC consists of the following programs and services:

Programs

- Brava! Enterprise
- IGC Writer

Services

- EsalGCBravaLicenseService
- EsalGCJobProcessor

Considerations

- You must already be logged in as the user to the new IGC account to be able to change the IGC service account. This is because IGC assumes the account that you are running is the correct new user account and will not prompt for the name of the user account. IGC does prompt for a user password. Make sure the IGC user account has administrator privileges on the server and, if in a distributed architecture or utility node configuration, has access to the UNC path used for exports and is a domain user account.
- Do not use the Windows Service Control Manager to change user accounts. To ensure that IGC runs correctly and has the proper owner permissions, follow the directions outlined in the appropriate section below.

Changing the IGC Service Account

To change the IGC service account:

1. Manually uninstall IGC with Microsoft Windows Add/Remove Program feature (follow the uninstall program directions that are appropriate for your version of the Microsoft Windows OS).
  - A. Click the Start button, click Control Panel, and then click Programs and Features.
  - B. Select Brava! Enterprise and then click Uninstall.
  - C. Repeat Step B for IGC Writer.
2. Reboot the machine.
3. On the eDiscovery server where IGC is installed, log in as the new IGC service account.
4. Navigate to: D:\CW\\Utilities\IGCAdmin and double-click setup.exe.
Reinstall the IGC program.
5. Verify that the two IGC services reflect the proper IGC service account and that both show a "Started" Status.
6. Contact Technical Support for assistance with the two final checks below. See "Technical Support" on page 6
  - A. Clear the temp cache for a few documents in a test case, and then re-render them from the Analysis & Review module.
  - B. In Review mode, select to view "Native/Image" to check that the documents appear as expected.

Uninstalling and Re-Installing IGC

There may be occasions where you need to install a later version of IGC or repair a failed or corrupt IGC installation. You do this by completely uninstalling and then re-installing IGC.

To uninstall and install IGC:

1. Manually uninstall IGC with Microsoft Windows Add/Remove Program feature (follow the uninstall program directions that are appropriate for your version of the Microsoft Windows OS).
  - A. Click the Start button, click Control Panel, and then click Programs and Features.
  - B. Select Brava! Enterprise and then click Uninstall.
  - C. Repeat Step B for IGC Writer.
2. Reboot the machine.
3. On the eDiscovery server where IGC is installed, log in under the IGC service user account.
4. Navigate to: D:\CW\\Utilities\IGCAdmin and double-click setup.exe.
5. Verify that the two IGC services reflect the proper IGC service account and that both show a "Started" status.
